Forgiveness is part of the journey of faith for many Christians. It is, on the one hand, something that compels us toward right relationships and justice. On the other hand, forgiveness is hard work that requires energy, spiritual integrity, and honesty.

Joretta Marshall serves as Executive Vice President and Dean and also as Professor of Pastoral Theology and Care at Brite Divinity School. Prior to joining the faculty at Brite, she taught at Vanderbilt University Divinity School, Iliff School of Theology, and Eden Seminary, where she was also Academic Dean. She is the author of Why Should I Forgive? and the co-editor of Forgiveness and Abuse: Jewish and Christian Reflections (with Marie Fortune). She is a past President of the American Association of Pastoral Counselors and an ordained Elder in the United Methodist Church with membership in the Rocky Mountain Conference.
