

HEBI 60003 (Fall 2022) Interpreting the Hebrew Bible and Deuterocanonical Books in Context
Three Credit Hours

Instructor: Gafney

Prerequisites: None

Description of Content:

This course is a graduate level introduction to critical interpretation of the Hebrew Bible and Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical books focusing on content and context. It will include a selective survey of the history, literature and religion of ancient Israel focusing on the Torah (Pentateuch) and Prophets (Former and Latter). It is not open to Th.M., D.Min. or Ph.D. students and has no prerequisites.

We will engage issues of interpretation in light of history, archaeology, canon formation, and, text and translation issues. We will read the bible in its ancient contexts and our own contemporary contexts with particular emphasis on teaching and preaching biblical literature. Our primary questions will include: What does the bible say? What did it mean? How has its meaning developed over time? How do (and should we) we understand and use the bible?

Class Procedures:

Lectures, small and large group discussion, peer-to-peer learning and student presentations.
